If you are desirous of enrolling for one of these camps you should read to-day's article in connection with the one printed yesterday and you will then have all of the information necessary, without bothering any officials of the War Department for details.

Fourteen Camps Established.

Fourteen citizens' training camps have been established. Twelve of these are located in the most convenient places with references to twelve proposed division areas. Two of the camps have been placed at the most convenient points with reference to four other proposed divisional areas. All of these camps have been designated for en-rollment of 2,500. Plattsburg is a double camp, where provision has been made for 5,000 men. Fort Benjamin made for 5,000 men. Fort Scharles Harrison, near Indianapolis, and Fort Sheridan, near Chicago, are to have 4,000 under instruction. It is expected that case a surplus application for one f the eastern camps can be taken care of wherever vacancies occur.

Advice for Women Only

It has been said by the late Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, in his book, entitled "Wear and Tear, or Hints for the Overworked," "that multitudes of our young girls are merely pretty to look at, or not that; that their destiny is the shawland the sofa, neuralgia, weak backs, and the varied forms of hysteria-that domestic demon which has produced untold discomfort in many a household, and, I am almost ready to say, as much unhappiness as the husband's larger attendance, but the serious shortage of regular army officers makes it unwise to attempt more at this time. It is believed to be better to give 2,500 later. It is conceivable that many who are appointed in "the first ten thousand" much larger number inadequate instruction.

A complete division comprises nine regiments of infantry, three regiments of field artillery, one regiment of cavalry, one regiment of cavalry, one regiment of cavalry alry, one regiment of engineers and incellaneous small organizations, each training camp will, therefore, be organized with a view to furnishing it the officers of such a division, but with the addition of one cavalry regiment at each camp, to provide for a separate cavalry division.

To Be Divided Total force must receive substantial promotion to meet the demands of forces to be raised later. It is conceivable that many who are appointed in "the first ten thousand" successive addition to our military force. For this reason the War Department hopes that mature men will seek appointment in "the first ten thousand." Other similar camps must follow this first camp. Young men must be admitted to the first camp, but not to the exclusion of maturer men. In the second and following camps young men will predominate.

Resources Taxed to Limit.

To Be Divided Into Companies. During the first month of the camp those in attendance will be divided into fifteen companies, regardless of the dividuals are destined. During this month the qualifications of each man Francisco, Cal.

Instructions Begin May 8.

The courses of instruction will begin May 8. The camps will be ready for the reception of reserve officers and candidates for commissions on May 1. Those who are examined for admission to these camps and who are found to these camps and who are found the state of the first month, therefore, men will be reassigned in due proportions so as to form nine infantry companies, three batteries of artillery, two troops of cavalry and one company of engineers. Other men who will have been selected for the coast artillery will proceed to Fort Monroe, will have been selected for the coast artillery will proceed to Fort Monroe, Va., or Fort Winfield Scott, Cal., for the remainder of their training.

Those who remain at the division camps will receive two months' training after the reassignment mentioned above. At the end of the whole period divisions by for procuring the enlisted men.

Corps, if found to be competent, and will be available for use in connection with any additional force that may be authorized.

The total number of officers required for the sixteen infantry divisions and for the sixteen infantry divisions and the two cavalry divisions is approximately 10,000. These should be preferably mature men and the most experienced natural leaders that the country possesses. It is recognized that there are thousands of men throughout the country between the ages of twenty-one and forty-four who have had more or less military experience either in or less military experience either in the regular army or National Guard, or at military schools. With the basic aptitude for handling men as demon-strated in business or otherwise, a agreement to accept an appointment in the Officers' Reserve Corps at the end splendid corps of 10,000 reserve officers of the camp period if such appointment should be available by the middle of

of the camp period if such appointment is tendered by the Secretary of War.

The reason for establishing these camps at vacated, or practically vacated, military posts is the fact that the supply of tentage has been seriously depleted. By use of these posts existing harracks and other facilities become available. At each post tents and temporary structures will be used to accommodate the overflow, if any.

The War Department would prefer a should be available by the middle of July.

It is necessary that "the first ten thousand" should be the best that the country has. In planning the nation's military forces it must be assumed that the war is by no means drawing to a close and that the country must expand its military forces as rapidly and effectively as the resources of the country permit. The sixteen infantry divisions and two cavalry divisions aggregate approximately a half million men. The officers of this War Department have been taxed to the utmost. The number of instructors is not officers and candidates for appointmen as such, who will be in attendance at tions to teach certain subjects and in this way be of material assistance to the egular army officers. This depends so much upon the personnel of each instruction company that the matter must be regulated by the regular army officer in whatever books they possess, but the authorized and necessary books for individuals will be furnished on arrival in camp.

The minimum age of those who attend is twenty years and nine months. This enables the War Department to appoint suitable young men who are twenty-one years of age at the end of the training period. The maximum age is forty-four years. It is expected that students at colleges who are members of the reserve officers' training corps, and who are especially fitted to become members of "the first 10,000," will be selected by the regular army officer on duty at the college and admitted to these camps. Such students should preferably go to the camp that pertains to their home states. It is believed that colleges in general will graduate seniors who attend these camps.

Applications for authority to attend these camps will be addressed to the commanding general of the department in which the appropriate camp is located. Applications should be ad dressed as follows:
